ITS MEDICAL PROPERTIES ARE

Alterative, Tonic, Solvent AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE

Reliable Evidence.

Mr. H. R. Stevens:

Dear Sir—I will most cheerfully add my testimony to the great number you have already received in favor of your great and good medicine, Vegetine, for I do not think enough can be said in its praise, for I was troubled over thirty years with that dreadful disease, Catarrh, and had such bad coughing spells that it would seem as though I never could breathe any more, and Vegetine has cured me; and I do feel to thank God all the time that there is so good a medicine as Vegetine, and I also think it one of the best medicines for coughs and weak, sinking feelings at the stomache, and advise everybody to take the Vegetine, for I can assure them it is one of the best medicines that ever was. MRS. L. GORE,
Cor. Magazine and Walnut Sts.

CANNOT BE

EXCELLED.

Charlestown, March 19, 1869.
H. R. Stevens:

Dear Sir—This is to certify that I have used your "Blood Preparation" in my family for several years, and think that, for Scrofula or Cankerous Humors or Rheumatic affections, it cannot be excelled; and as a blood purifier or spring medicine, it is the best thing I have ever used, and I have used almost everything. I can cheerfully recommend it to any one in need of such a medicine.
Yours respectfully,
Mrs. A. A. DINSMORE,

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

THE LOUISIANA CASE.

MADDOX TO BE OVERHAULED.

Habeas Corpus for Wells and Anderson.

THE SIGNAL SERVICE.

Washington, Feb. 9.

Capt. Carlisle P. Patterson, superintendent of the coast survey, has protested against the annexation of the signal service to his bureau.

Personal.

Ex-Gov. Fenton of New York is here, and the liberal republicans are urging his appointment as secretary of the treasury in Hayes's cabinet.

Gov. Wells denies that the sergeant-at-arms took arms from his person here. They were abstracted from his trunk.

Secretary Morrill passed a feeble night and is regarded by his physicians and friends as slowly improving. His voice is clear and strong, and he is cheerful.

Attempt to Secure False Testimony.

Washington, Feb. 9.

Marshal Pitkin states that four democrats at New Orleans sought the wife of one of the returning board clerks, now under subpœna here, and entreated her in every possible way to telegraph her husband to swear falsely against the returning board, in order to confirm the testimony of the clerk Littlefield. She indignantly refused.

The Witness Maddox.

A series of questions has been prepared to be submitted to the witness Maddox, when he is examined by the republicans. These questions relate to documentary evidence on file in the confederate archives. If truthfully answered, it is stated that they will make a very damaging case against him.

The Louisiana Prisoners.

Counsel for Wells and Anderson, of the Louisiana returning board, will apply to the district court this morning for a habeas corpus, on action of the House yesterday in refusing to place them in a healthful room.

Dudley Field in Search of Ineligible Electors.

The House Prerogative Committee this morning examined Mr. Dagan, an alleged ineligible republican elector from Nevada. He was clerk of United States Court but resigned just before election, to the judge. He was not prepared to prove that the judge received the resignation. Dudley Field is devoting all his energies now to ineligible electors.

THE FLORIDA CASE.

The Struggle in the Electoral Commission.

THE STATE AWARDED TO HAYES AND WHEELER.

Washington, Feb. 9, Evening.

The Electoral Commission

remained in session, with the exception of two short recesses, till about 8 o'clock. It was developed about the middle of the afternoon that the vote on counting the four votes of Florida for Hayes would stand eight to seven. The question of the ineligibility of Humphreys was soon decided in his favor, with little dissent. Long and at times heated debates ensued upon the form of report to be made to the joint convention. The democrats struggled hard to prevent the use of such phraseology as would cover questions arising in Louisiana and Oregon, but the republicans finally adopted a form in spite of this opposition that has

Very Direct Bearing on Oregon.

The report will be signed by the eight republicans, and will recite that the commission finds the four Hayes Electors the ones constitutionally appointed from Florida, and that it was not competent to contradict, by testimony outside of the returns submitted to the joint convention by the Vice President, and the certificates of the Governor, where these certificates are founded upon and in accordance with the decision of the returning board of the state. Thus, by implication, it has been decided today that even a Governor's certificate would not be competent to overthrow the action of legally constituted returning or canvassing authority of a state. The report will be made to the joint convention tomorrow. The two houses will then separate for a vote, and each house will have two hours for debate. A lively time may be expected in each. Upon the reassembling of the joint convention it is possible, but not very probable, the count may then proceed as far as Louisiana tomorrow.

Decision of the Electoral Commission.

The electoral commission this evening by a vote of eight against seven, decided that the four electoral votes of Florida should be counted for Hayes and Wheeler. A formal report to this effect was signed at 8.20 P. M., by Messrs. Bradley, Edmunds, Frelinghuysen, Garfield, Hoar, Miller, Morton and Strong, and will be sent to the president of the senate tomorrow morning.

THE OREGON ELECTION CASE.

Senator Mitchell's Report.

Washington, Feb. 9.

The report of the committee on the Oregon case will be handed in by Senator Mitchell today. It says that, conceding Watts was ineligible, the governor had no jurisdiction, and his action was void; that his ineligibility was not proved before any competent tribunal; that he took his seat in the Electoral College only by reason of his election by a majority of that college, and therefore his vote cannot now be questioned; that the laws of Oregon provide for electors filling vacancies; that the governor's certificate on its face shows that two republican electors were chosen.

These were a majority of the college, and the only ones contemplated by law to fill a vacancy. Their record of the proceedings of the college is the only one admissable, and it shows that Cronin did not attend the meeting or participate in its proceedings; that he set himself up as the electoral college of Oregon, and proceeded to fill two other places without a shadow of authority under the law governing the case.

REPUBLICANS SATISFIED.

Principles Decided to Cover Other States.

Washington, Feb. 9.

Stanley Matthews and other prominent republicans from Ohio and other parts of the country, who have been here for some time in the interest of Hayes, attending the preliminary proceedings before the tribunal, have returned home satisfied with the prospects of the success of the republicans.

It appears that the principles involved in the decision of the judges in the Florida case will cover the case of Louisiana, and the only possible chance that the democrats now have is in regard to the eligibility of electors in Louisiana and one or two other states, but even here the impression among prominent democrats is that the court will divide as in case of Florida on all important questions bearing directly upon the issue.

DESTRUCTIVE CONFLAGRATION AT SWANTON, VT.

Loss Nearly $100,000.

Swanton, Vt., Feb. 9.

A fire broke out at 12 o'clock in the back part of C. C. Long's store, and has extended south to and including Hogle's block, and north to H. W. Farrar's occupied by S. S. Morey. It is thought that it can be kept from proceeding any further. The loss must reach nearly one hundred thousand dollars.

The New York Times suggests that ocean steamers be provided with a number of carrier pigeons, to be let loose in case of any accident, or even from time to time to give news of the voyage.

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Last Night's Debate in Parliament.

A SIGNIFICANT SPEECH BY LORD DERBY.

MIDHAT PASHA'S DOWNFALL.

London, Feb. 9.

Lord Derby, in his speech on the address, declared England's policy from the first had been to press the recommendations of the conference upon the porte, but not to use or sanction the use of force, and at the same time not to undertake to protect Turkey from force used by the Powers. He explained that he did not mean that our duty should be inaction under all possible circumstances, as for instance, if Constantinople should be threatened. That was a question on which it was unnecessary and wholly unwise to pledge ourselves now.

With regard to the Czar's assurances, he said that though he believed in the Czar's sincerity still, even the Czar might be compelled to act against his personal wishes, and he declined to accept any declarations as a guarantee against war. The Duke of Argyll made a violent attack on the government, and declared his belief that their policy of never forcing Turkey to comply with their wishes, would end in a disastrous war.

Midhat Pasha.

Constantinople, Feb. 9.

The story that Midhat Pasha was implicated in a conspiracy, is now universally discredited. The Turquie, a semi-official journal, announces that he was dismissed because his conduct tended to curtail the power of the Sultan. He was exiled merely as a precaution against popular excitement.

FROM NEW YORK.

SOUND PIRATES PLUNDER A SCHOONER IN COW BAY.

Schooner Ella Defries, anchored in Cow Bay, Long Island Sound, Wednesday night, was boarded by four thieves, who knocked the captain senseless and robbed the vessel of $750 worth of property. All the thieves were armed with revolvers.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

JANUARY SESSION, AT PROVIDENCE.

SENATE.

Friday, Feb. 9.

Governor Lippitt took the chair in the senate at 11 o'clock, as usual.

The Governor presented the usual annual invitation from the board of state charities and corrections to the General Assembly to visit the state farm on Thursday, 15th instant. Accepted and ordered communicated to the House.

Mr. Verry gave notice of the final public meeting of the committee on the Industrial School on Tuesday next upon the rising of the Assembly.

Mr. Brayton gave notice that there would be a meeting of the committee upon the transfer of the state prison, on Monday next after the rising of the House.

The chair announced the appointment of Messrs. Verry, Lapham and Chase, as members on the part of the Senate of the joint committee upon the proposed new county of Woonsocket.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Petition of Wm. W. Hoppin and others for act to incorporate the Providence Charitable Fuel Society. Referred to the committee on finance.

Mr. Drake offered the following resolutions, which were read and referred to the committee on education.

Resolution requiring instruction in morals and manners in the public schools of the state.

Resolved, That the commissioner of public schools be and is hereby authorized and instructed to cause to be introduced into all the public schools of the state as a part of the system of instruction therein, an exercise to be known under the title "Of Morals and Manners," and to require that during the period set apart for this exercise, there shall be such instruction given as may by the teacher be deemed most advisable, upon the following topics, namely: honesty, truthfulness, purity of thought and language, courteous and respectful behavior, industry, patriotism and temperance.

Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the teachers in the public schools, in addition to the foregoing, to take every appropriate occasion to inculcate in the minds of the pupils under their charge, virtue, morality and courtesy, and that, for the purpose of aiding said teachers in the performance of their duty, they are hereby authorized to take cognizance of the conduct of said pupils both in and out of school, and to hold them responsible for violations of morals and manners, by rules as strict as may be prescribed for the correction of other violations or neglect of duty.

The sixth annual report of the ladies' board of visitors to the penal and correctional institutions, was sent up again from the house, read and ordered placed on file.

Mr. Drake gave notice that the senate committee on corporations would hear parties interested in the Rhode Island Central Railroad, on Tuesday next on the rising of the senate.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The house met at 11 o'clock, Speaker Aldrich in the chair.

Mr. Tillinghast presented the petition of Thomas J. Hill and forty-five others and

Mr. Dixon reported from the judiciary committee the petition of Warren J. Crosby and others, for leave to build a wharf at Drownville, and the petition was granted.

Several petitions for the division of the town of Warwick were presented.

Mr. Blackwood presented, by consent, an act to prevent incendiarism. Referred to the judiciary committee. The act provides for an inquiry into the cause of a fire.

The invitation to visit the state farm, Feb. 15, was accepted in consurrence.

If Gen. Diaz is anxious to prove to this country his worthiness to run the Mexican republic, let him suppress the banditti who are threatening the American frontier. So far as the United States is concerned, that is now the test that should be satisfied before recognition is extended.

RELIGIOUS.

Bishop Andrews, now on his round the world tour, is to hold the conference of the Methodist Episcopal Mission Churches of Italy, in Rome, commencing March 7th.

The Universalists in America now have 656 churches, with 32,947 members. More than a third of the membership is in Massachusetts and New York, viz.: 5,442 respectively.

An exchange says that the Rev. Mr. Stewart, of Steubenville, Ohio, will probably accept the unanimous call to become the pastor of the Calvinistic church and society of Fitchburg. The salary has been fixed at twenty five hundred dollars.

Dr. Tiffany, of Chicago, has accepted a call to the St. Paul's Church, New York, and will enter upon his new charge as soon as his successor shall have been provided for by his present charge.

The new Memorial Unitarian Church in Washington will be built on the corner of Fourteenth and L streets. Contributions for the work have been received from the Unitarians throughout the country.

The Rev. Dr. Buckley, pastor of the Methodist Church, Stamford, Conn., is rejoicing in the midst of an extensive revival. A recent missionary collection in his church amounted to $3,130.

The new edifice built by the First Baptist Church of Rochester, N. Y., will be dedicated Feb. 7th. The building is an elegant structure of Medina stone and has been erected at a cost of more than $100,000.

Letters from Bishop Haven, now in Monrovia, Africa, have been received. He and his traveling companions are well. The bishop is in Africa to look after the Methodist missions in that country.

Rev. Phœbe A. Hanaford has been removed from the pastorate of the First Universalist Church of Jersey City, the members having voted in favor of employing a male pastor. She will start a church of her own. Quite a number of the late church are going with her.

The Christian Union says: "There seems to be no doubt that the Jews are flocking back to Palestine in large numbers, especially from England, the restoration of Jerusalem and the foundation of a Jewish republic being the aim that carries them there. It is said they claim that England can never withdraw from questions affecting European politics in the East, and that she will assist them in emergencies. Their faith in the whole movement is strong."

In China, "the spirits"—for they have spirit-circles there—are all followers of Confucius. In Siam, they are equally devoted Buddhists. In Hindoostan, they are worshippers of Juggernaut. In Christendom, they are Catholic or Protestant, Christian or Infidel, Churchmen or Dissenters, Orthodox or Heterodox, of all opinions and no opinions, just according to the peculiar complexion of the circles in which they appear. This is true, not only of different classes of spirits, but equally of the same identical spirits. In the infidel and kindred circles, the spirits of orthodox ministers appear, and with expressions of the deepest regret, abjure their earthly teachings and ministrations. In the few orthodox circles Infidels and Universalists of every grade, as from the world of despair, affirm every article of the orthodox faith, and abjure their own earthly opinions, as being nothing else than "the doctrines of devils."

SELECTIONS FROM MR. MOODY'S SERMONS.

MISTAKES.

There are a great many people in the church who are afraid to do anything, because they may make a mistake. But it is better to go ahead and make a few mistakes than to fold our arms and go to sleep.

NO SILENT PARTNERS WANTED.

You may go into business with a man and be a silent partner, but you cannot go into business with God on those terms. He does not want such partners. If you are basing your hope of Heaven on that, you will be disappointed, sadly disappointed, by-and-by. When men think that it is hard to work for God it is a sign that they have not been completely converted. Do not go on with that terrible delusion that you are hastening on to Heaven if you do not work.

ZEAL AND KNOWLEDGE.

It is very easy when we get enthusiasm and are full of love for God and his work. A great many will cry out, "He has zeal without knowledge." I would a great deal rather have zeal without knowledge than knowledge without zeal. There is a good deal of knowledge without zeal here in Boston.

PREACHING TO THE UNCONVERTED.

Some one has said to me, "When are you going to preach to the unconverted?" Well, I don't know that I shall preach to them at all. I will get you to preach to them. We want thousands of men and women going out to tell the story of the cross.

CONVERSION THE DRUNKARD'S HOPE.

Prayers were offered by several young men, and one asked that prayers might be made for a number of young men in a reform club who had failed to keep their pledge to abstain from strong drink. "Are they converted?" asked Mr. Moody with startling earnestness of the young man. "No sir," was the reply. "Then I wouldn't give that, (snapping his finger) for their promises. You must have the love of God in the heart before men can keep their pledge. If they trust to their own strength they will fail."

RIGHTEOUSNESS.

We don't want so much religion as righteousness. We are living in a day of a great deal of religion but very little righteousness. We want men to depart from their sins.

THE LEVITE ON THE JERICHO ROAD.

The next man that came along down was a Levite. He did more than the priest, for he stopped and gave a good look at the poor fellow who had fallen among thieves. He saw that he was a Jew. He heard his dying groan; but his business was very pressing. Perhaps he was going down to Jericho to help dedicate this synagogue, to help the priest. Perhaps, too, he was going the other way up to Jerusalem to attend to important duties at the temple, and perhaps he looked at this man and saw that he was his neighbor and said, "Well, I declare; I saw him in the temple only the other day, and he always did all he could to keep up the temple; but my business is very pressing. If I see a policeman I will send him, and when I get home we'll start a society in Jerusalem to look after these sort of fellows." A great many are like that now. If they have a great deal of money they are ready to give a few dollars, but how few are ready to take off their coats and go right into the vineyard and work themselves!

LOVE IS THE LEVER THAT MOVES THE WORLD.

This love Christ had, and such a love all must have who would follow in His footsteps. I don't believe there is a man or woman in this whole city of Boston whose heart is so hard that it cannot be won if you go to them in the right way, with love in your heart.

TEARLESS EYES.

—"God will wipe all tears from their eyes." The expression is one of exquisite tenderness and beauty. The poet Burns said he could never read this without being affected to weeping. Of all the negative descriptions of the "world to come," there is no one perhaps that would be better adapted to produce consolation than this. Who is there of the human family that has not shed a tear? And what a change it would make in our world, if it could be said that henceforth not a tear would be shed, not a head would ever be bowed again in grief! Yet this is to be the condition of the "world to come." In that world there is to be no pain, no disappointment, no bereavement. No friend is to lie on a sick bed—no grave is to be opened to receive a parent, a wife, a child. Amidst the trials of the present life, when friends leave us, when sickness comes, when standing on the verge of the grave and looking down into the cold tomb, it is a blessed privilege to be permitted to look forward to that higher scene in the "purchased possession," where not a pang shall ever be felt.

RESISTING THE TRUTH.

There is no graver sin than resistance to truth—rebellion against one's spiritual convictions. He who crushes out a longing after goodness, he who fights down a conviction of duty, he who resists the voice of conscience, he who persists in wickedness when virtue is made known to him, he who hesitates in doing what he knows he ought to do, acts not only against the universal sentiment of honesty and justice, but against the Spirit of the living God. We are not talking of truth in the abstract, of the truth of mathematics, or the truth of science, but of that truth in thought, conscience, and feeling, which tells you what to do, and how to live; to what to cleave, what to avoid. The graves where angels weep are in the hearts of men; and darker than the shade of cypress are the shadows which rest above the spot where longings for a better life, and resolutions of duty, lie buried. For a soul to stand braced in stubborn indifference, when all the forces of love, mercy, and honor, urge it on; for a man to hug the earth, when all the attraction of the skies is centred on him; when heaven, like a great moral magnet, is drawing him upward toward itself,—is a deed no one can do, unless he has been visited by and has resisted the Holy Ghost.

"Grieve not the Holy Spirit."

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Business holds its own in spite of the political uncertainty. Most of the failures are of firms which were stricken two or three years ago, and have been unable to rally or stand the strain of the long depression; and the failing in some instances will merely clear away the rubbish and prepare the ground for a new and fairer start when the time comes. But, in spite of the hard times, some of the dry goods houses say they did from 50 to 75 per cent. more business, the past, than the season before; the profits have been smaller, but the business has been safer, and they have no misgivings for the future. There are no goods to speak of in the warehouses in bond, while there is a perceptibly increasing demand. One of the most cheering signs of improvement is the hopeful spirit of all classes. Everybody predicts better times. Everybody seems confident that the back of the depression is broken, like that of winter, and that there are brighter days ahead whose breath is in the air. This spirit of confidence is bracing all classes a good deal, and, when the presidential question is settled, it makes little difference to our business men which candidate wins, there will be a general movement of trade along the whole line. The impression that we are in sight of specie payments encourages one class of capitalists, and doubtless has some effect in steadying and strengthening the financial pulse. The gold ring of the country centers here, and resumption in gold is especially desired by its members before the silverites succeed in pushing the Bland-Kelley bill through the Senate. The majority of business men seem to have only an indefinite idea about the matter. They want specie payments because this seems to be the normal financial condition of a country, but whether the specie shall be gold or silver, or both, are questions they do not puzzle their brains to answer, and a majority of congressmen seem to be in the same delightfully uncertain predicament. But if it takes till March to determine who is president, there is little chance that the national finances will be touched by the present congress.—[N. Y. Cor. Springfield Republican.

The trial of four Mollie Maguires for the murder of Alexander Rea, a mine superintendent, began in Bloomsburg yesterday. It is nine years since Rea was murdered. He was on the road between Centralia and Mount Carmel, and had stopped at a wayside spring to water his horse. Four men sprung out of the bushes, dragged him from his carriage and beat him to death. The four men, it is charged, were Patrick Hester, Michael Graham, Patrick McHugh and Patrick Tully. After Jack Kehoe, Hester has been regarded as the most desperate of the Mollies. His deeds of violence were always for plunder, and he believed, it is asserted, that Mr. Rea had a large sum of money with him at the time of the murder. There is a powerful array of counsel on both sides.

One of the Boston railroad corporations, it is understood, will require the men in its employ to sign an agreement that so long as they remain in the service of the corporation they will assume all risks to their persons and property, and that the corporation shall not be liable to them or their representatives for any injury, loss or detention to person or property, whether such injury, loss or detention shall result from the use or defects of engines, cars, machinery, roadbed, rails or any other instruments, means or appliances, or from accident, or from the default, negligence, carelessness or misconduct of officers, agents or servants of the corporation, or of any other person, or from any act of commission or omission done or omitted to be done by the corporation, or from any other cause whatever.

FAILURE OF A. S. GALLUP.

A. S. Gallup of New York, copartner of Hoyt, Sprague & Co., has been adjudicated a bankrupt. The following are the largest claims against Gallup, individually, and also as a member of the firm of Gallup Brothers: Rodney F. Dyer, $100,000; William D. Prince, $18,000; W. G. R. Mowry, $12,000 (these secured by mortgage on real estate; (R. S. Huzard, $8500; B. B. & R. Knight, $18,437 81; Butchers' and Drovers' Bank of Providence, $12,809 87; Grocers' and Producers' Bank of Providence, $11,884 64; Potter, Dennison & Co., $2350. Gallup recently made an assignment of all his real estate in Providence for the benefit of his creditors, which sold for $70,000.

ANOTHER CASE OF "BARDELL VERSUS PICKWICK."

Mrs. Mary E. Oliver, who has brought a suit against Senator Cameron to recover damages for breach of promise of marriage, is a clerk in the treasury department, and comes from the interior of Pennsylvania. She is small in stature, about thirty-five years old, and not particularly prepossessing. She owed her place in the treasury to Mr. Cameron, but beyond the friendly act of obtaining this clerkship the senator denies having done anything to create the idea that he has any special regard for her, and expresses the belief that she is either insane or is trying to blackmail. Mr. Cameron is nearly seventy-eight years old, and has been a widower only about a year, having lost his wife about the time Mrs. Oliver says he promised to marry her.

The Newport Daily News and the Newport Journal.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon, (Sundays excepted,) at the News building, 13 Church street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning, and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies, and at least one good story, the latest markets, and a complete and comprehensive summary of the news,—local and general. The Journal is a large, 32 column paper, and contains more reading matter than any other paper in the southern part of the state.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter, are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered for one week or longer. Funeral notices 50 cents each. Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business and are allowed twenty five changes a year. No gratuitious advertising for any object.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week, to carrier.

The Newport Journal, $2 per annum, or $1.50 if the whole year is paid for strictly in advance.

PRINTING.

Connected with the News is the largest general printing office in the city. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

Probabilities.

For the New England states, stationary barometer, northwest, shifting to southwest winds, warmer and partly cloudy weather.

THE DAY.

Florida is no longer one of the doubtful states.

Secretary Morrill is reported slightly improving.

The General Assembly has been in session six weeks.

The breach of promise case of Oliver vs. Cameron has a strong resemblance to that of Bardell vs. Pickwick.

It is altogether too early to assume that the final decision of the electoral commission will be in favor of Hayes and Wheeler.

It is said that when the clams heard that the strike in New Bedford was coming off, they went down into the mud two feet below their usual level.

A movement is on foot at Taunton to reduce the salaries of the city officers, and a committee has been appointed by the city government to consider the matter and report.

Portland, Maine, with a population jo 30,000 has a debt of $6,000,000. Two-thirds of this was incurred by subscriptions to two railroad companies which have defaulted on their bonds.

The new Trinity Church in Boston was formerly consecrated yesterday morning with impressive ceremonies. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Alexander H. Vinton, D. D.

Senator Drake introduced some important resolutions in the General Assembly yesterday in relation to the public schools. The kind of instruction for which they provide is greatly needed.

The board of trustees of the Rhode Island Hospital adopted an appropriate and worthy minute for their records and for publication on the occasion of the death of their president the late Amos D. Smith.

The movement in favor of Gen. Van Zandt for governor meets with many favorable responses in other parts of the state. The newspapers abroad are also taking up the matter and speaking of the nomination as one eminently fit to be made.

The capital of the Crossley Carpet Company is $11,000,000 and its reputation is world wide. And yet the lending member of the house has failed and the company suspended operations. The losses are said to have come mostly from outside operations rather than from the regular business of the corporation.

Complaint is made by some of our democratic friends that the votes in the electoral commission are purely partisan. We see no way to avoid this so long as the democratic members persist under all circumstances, in casting their ballots for their own candidates. If they desire to have it otherwise let them go with the majority and make the vote unanimous.

The seminary at East Greenwich is to remain under the charge of Prof. Blakeslee who has been its principal for the past four years. Under his management the school has greatly prospered and it may be regarded as one of the best of its class in New England. Its commercial department is very excellent and young persons can avail themselves of its advantages at much less cost than in some of the so-called colleges where the instruction is not so good.

Mr. William G. Turner, whose studio is now in Florence, Italy, and who was represented in the Centennial Exhibition by two of his works, the "Fisherman's Daughter" and the "Transition," is spoken of by a correspondent of the Swiss Times in the following terms:

"A most splendid figure, half life size, now adorns Mr. Turner's studio. It represents Rhoda when "she ran in and told how Peter stood before the gate." His "Night" and "Morning" medallion busts, and his "Incredulity" and "Herald of Peace," all give evidence of the original genius of the artist; I say "original," for his compositions show great originality and are more distinguished for largeness and simplicity of masses than for minuteness in secondary matter of fine detail. In ornamental sculpture, where flowers and nicely finished lace-work are predominant, much of the vigor of composition is lost. "The Herald of Peace" is considered by Fruilini and Medici, the Italian sculptors—who, in matters of art, are acknowledged authorities—as the happiest effort of Mr. Turner. It has gained him more than local celebrity, and also diplomas of membership of two Florentine art societies."

THE BLUE GLASS THEORIES.

The recent statements made by Gen. Pleasanton, or by various persons on his behalf, as to the power of blue light to effect cures of certain diseases, seem to have been met more than half way by the yearning faith of the public.

It is especially noticeable that the reports are chiefly of a class of cases dependent upon or connected with a debilitated system and an imperfect or feeble performance of the normal functions of the body; and here Gen. Pleasanton's explanation of the rationale of his method, suggests to the physicinn that there is a "curious coincidence" between the cases treated by blue glass and his own observations of the effects of electricity in similar cases.

Gen. Pleasanton believes that the effects he ascribes to the blue light are owing to the electricity generated by the sudden stopping of all those more slowly vibrating rays of light placed before the blue in the spectrum, and which electricity in the glass induces an equal quantity of electricity of opposite polarity in the blue rays which pass through the glass carrying with them their charge of induced electricity.

However, Gen. P. is not tenacious of this point of the modus operandi, admitting that it may be wrong and merely insisting upon the verity of the results he has observed. And perhaps that was just as well for him, for it is as yet hardly demonstrated that a ray or any other quantity of light is a conductor of electricity; in fact, electricity doesn't seem to be at all afraid of the dark.

The Popular Science Monthly for February describes some experiments by Hankel, which would lead us to think that the electricity (if that really be the effective element) is produced at the surface, which finally receives and absorbs the rays passed through the glass.

To determine experimentally the action of light in the development of electricity, Hankel took two bright strips of copper, one of which he fixed in a porous clay cell by means of a cork stopper. The cell was filled with water and placed in a larger glass vessel, containing the same water, in which was immersed the other strip. The two strips were connected with the wire of a galvanometer. Direct sunlight or variously colored lights were then admitted to the outer strip of copper. The results were as follows; On access of free sunlight the galvanometer showed only a moderate amount of electricity; behind a red glass the action was extremely small; behind yellow, a little stronger; behind green and dark blue successively, still stronger; behind dark violet it became less again.

Other experiments were made after changing the condition of the copper plate by oxydizing it and the results varied somewhat as to the amount of electricity developed by the different colors when compared with each other. But this result was invariable; that the light through blue glass produced more electricity than full sunlight.

The fact ought to be very soothing and encouraging to those who are itching to try the new panacea and who yet dread being thought over credulous. Credulity isn't fashionable now.

DEATH OF PROFESSOR HENRY B. SMITH.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Boynton Smith, the distinguished theologian, died at his home in this city, No. 103 East Twenty-fifth street, yesterday morning. His health had been poor for several years, but his final illness was the result of a severe cold contracted about six weeks ago.

Dr. Smith was born in Portland, Me., on the 21st of November, 1815, was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1834, and was employed as a tutor in that institution in 1839 and 1839. He then studied theology at Andover and Bangor, continuing his studies at Halle and Berlin in Europe. On returning to this country he became pastor of the Congregational church at West Amesbury, Mass. In 1847 he became Professor of Intellectual and Moral Philosophy in Amherst College, and three years later he accepted the professorship of church history in the Union Theological Seminary, this city. He was transferred to the professorship of Systematic theology in 1854, and retained this position until 1874, when ill health compelled him to resign. He was then made Professor Emeritus, and occupied the chair of apologetics. Professor Smith was also appointed the lecturer on the Ely foundation for the present year.

In 1867 he was a delegate to the Evangelical Alliance at Amsterdam. In 1869 he travelled for his health in Germany and Italy, and in the following year, in company with the Rev. Drs. Hitchcock and Park, visited Mount Sinai, Palestine and Constantinople.

Professor Smith was the author of a number of religious works, including the "History of Christianity in Chronological Tables," and was the editor of the periodical known at different times as the American Theological Review, the American Presbyterian and the Presbyterian Quarterly. He translated several German theological works, and published many addresses, sermons, &c.

Professor Smith leaves a wife and four children.—[N. Y. Post.

The salary bill reported in the Springfield City Council, reduces the pay of the city clerk and treasurer from $2200 to $2000; the city messenger from $870 to $700; the superintendent of the streets from $1350 to $1000; the city marshal from $1600 to $1500; the assistant marshal from $1100 to $1000; the captain of the watch from $1000 to $950; the patrolmen from $950 to $780; the chief engineer of the fire department from $1250 to $1100, and the chairman of the board of water commissioners from $1400 to $1000.

It is said that when the reported death of Representative Alexander H. Stevens reached Georgia some nine or ten men sat up all night writing letters to their friends informing them of their intention to run for congress to fill the vacancy, and that many of the letters were mailed before it was ascertained that Mr. Stephens was not dead.

The pastor's subject in the Unitarian Church in the morning will be The Divinity and Religious Worth of the Natural Affections. In the evening beginning at 7 o'clock there will be a young people's sacred reading and singing service.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—Lent commences next week.

—The Friends' meeting tonight will begin at 7 o'clock.

—His Honor, the Mayor, has gone to New York for a few days.

—The state board of pharmacy meets in Providence on Monday.

—But few of the summer residences will be improved during the spring.

—The remains of Rear Admiral Wilkes, U. S. N., will be brought here for burial.

—The Old Colony Steamboat Company paid out in this city over $16,000 yesterday.

—We hear that the Dow-Kempton Opera Troupe will visit Newport again at an early date.

—Quite a number of Newporters are attending the Moody and Sankey meetings in Boston.

—The clothing store of George C. Munroe was closed this morning by order of Boston creditors.

—Owing to a freight train jumping the track near Bowenville, Conductor Harrington's train was about thirty minutes late last night.

—The Old Colony Railroad Company will put a gravel train on the road, to fill in the part of the cove now filled with water at high tide.

—Diphtheria is prevalent again. Two children of Arnold James have died of it this week, and three others of the family are ill with it.

—A gentleman in town today made application to a real estate agent for a house and said it should be supplied with furnace, gas, water and blue glass in the windows.

—Capt. Edward Simpson, U. S. N., formerly in command of the torpedo station at this place, has been detached from the command of the Omaha and ordered home.

—George M. Hazard et al. have sold a lot of land, 50x100 feet, on Prescott Hall road, to Simeon Hazard, of Newport, and Welcome B. Darling, of Providence, for $1 and other good and valuable considerations.

—It has been discovered that the injuries to the lad named Rose, who was thrown from a "double team" on Touro street about a week ago are more severe than was at first supposed. As his arm did not get better he went to Fall River to consult a surgeon, who told him that the elbow bone is fractured and the large bone of the arm is split. He was treated accordingly.

—Messrs. J. H. Taylor and William H. Cotton of this city attended the lecture of Prof. Markoe of Boston, yesterday before the Rhode Island Pharmaceutical Association in Providence.

—The steamer Old Colony had her crank-pin repaired here and was ready to leave for New York at one o'clock this morning. This speaks well for the enterprise of the company, for a crank-pin is a difficult article to make.

—We learn that there is a movement on foot among the druggists of this city to send a testimonial to William O. Blanding, a prominent druggist of Providence, in honor of the birth of a daughter. Mr. Blanding is quite a favorite in this city.

—Jere. Sullivan was arrested yesterday afternoon by Capt. Hammond and Officer Beaumont for assault and battery. His victim was William Farrell. After his arrest it was ascertained that on the previous day he stole a pair of boots which were hanging outside Benjamin H. Ailman's store.

—The "Old Folks" who for several winters past have met in Mr. William Coggeshall's shop for "sings" from the songs of yore, after repeated and urgent solicitations have agreed to give a concert not long hence. The meeting has already been marked as "Coggeshall's Opera Club," and a citizen caricaturist has made the club the subject of an amusing picture. Yesterday afternoon the first rehearsal with a view to the coming show was held. The club consists of between thirty and forty, of whom several are instrumental performers. The occasion will be well patronized, without doubt, and give many who desire it, an opportunity to hear the old men sing.

JUVENILE OPERA.—Now that the old folks have enjoyed a charming English Opera, the younger members of society are getting ready for an entertainment of the same class which has been provided for them. The advertisement represents it as the greatest novelty of the age, and the only organization of the kind in the world. It will appear in matinee on Tuesday afternoon next, and also in the evening. Tickets may still be had by inquiry at the usual place.

PORTSMOUTH.

EDUCATIONAL.—On Friday, the 2d instant, the third term of our school year closed. We have generally an excellent class of teachers, and most of our schools show good progress. In some of them examinations were held, and good evidence shown of the work done. The grammar school in District No. 5 has been taught the present school year, as it was last year, by Mrs. Clara E. Dennis, who is one of our most successful teachers. Total number of pupils registered in Mrs. Dennis's department, forty-five. Average daily attendance, forty. Percentage of attendance, eighty-eight.

The following named pupils have not been absent during the term: Emma Anthony, Annie S. Manchester, Nellie A. Easterbrooks, Katie L. Durfee, and Hattie C. Anthony. Among the boys, William H. Tallman ranks first in scholarship and deportment. Hattie G. Anthony is first in grammar, mathematics and history. Kate L. Durfee in reading, Maggie S. Forrester in book-keeping and geography. Hattie G. Anthony, Emma L. Brayton, Willie F. Brayton, Etta J. Fish, Annie S. Manchester, Katie L. Durfee, Maggie S. Forrester, Aggie D. Forrester and William H. Tallman have not missed in spelling during the term.

Thursday a very interesting and creditable examination took place, giving evidence of thorough work and deep interest.

Miss Nannie L. Chase has taught the present term in the primary department of this school, as she has done for many terms previously, with her usual success.

Friday a school festival was held, in which both departments united. The tables were loaded with good things, cakes, oranges nuts and confectionery, etc. The time was pleasantly passed in merry games, music and singing, and at the close the tired children, with happy hearts, joined in singing "Good Night," thus closing a term which has passed off pleasantly with both teachers and children.—[Providence Journal.

THE SALE OF JAMES GORDON BENNETT'S DOGS.

Mr. James Gordon Bennett's kennel was sold at public auction yesterday by Charles W. Barker, at Thirty-seventh street and Broadway. A pair of Gordon setters, said to have cost $1000, went for $40. Several other setters sold for about the same price. Four English mastiffs brought from $12 to $14 apiece, while two noble Newfoundland dogs, highly bred, and said to have cost a large sum, sold for a good deal less than their value. A pug brought $25, while a lot of spaniels only one brought $25, the others selling at prices ranging from $15 to $20. The sale took place, it is said, under instructions cabled to this country by Mr. Bennett, and it is reported that Mr. Bennett's stable will soon be sold under the hammer.

NOMAN'S LAND is, as is well known, a resort for codfishermen from the Vineyard in the spring and fall, many of whom have dwellings and boat houses on a low bluff near the landing in the bay on the north side of the island. On or near the 1st of January the island was visited by the highest tide ever known there, which did much damage, washing away six or eight dwellings and boat houses, and destroying lobster pots, fishing gear and pickled fish. Owing to the severe weather it was some six weeks before word could be sent to the Vineyard of the damage.

Logical—Lady (to shopman, after making him turn over all the stock: "There, that's exactly the quality I want; but it is green, and I want plum-color." Insinuating shopman; "You can't do better than take this. Besides, ma'am, it is 'plum-color.'" Lady: "What! Plum-color?" Shopman: "Certainly. Only the plums are not ripe."

The American Club of Philadelphia, a democratic organization, have engaged quarters at Washington for two hundred and fifty of their number, for the 4th of March, provided Mr. Tilden is inaugurated. Should Mr. Hayes be inaugurated the quarters are to be occupied by the Hartranft Club of Philadelphia.

There seems to be a tendency to overwork Mr. David Dudley Field. The dirty work of the democratic party is too mountainous a task to be put upon the shoulders of one man, even if he is used to it.—[Westfield Times.

The Washington correspondent of the Springfield Republican says that there is good reason to believe that Judge Davis agrees with the majority, and that if he had been in the place of Bradley, it would not have changed the result.

Gen. Meyers, the Chief Signal Officer, is is said to be considerable of a humorist. Quite a practical joker, we should think, from the kind of weather he has given us the past year.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

THE RAINY SEASON.—JOHN CHINAMAN.—NOVEL JURY CODE.—THE SILVER QUESTION, ETC., ETC.

Just two months from the last rain it commenced raining again. This is an unusually long interval at this time of the year, for it is what is called "the rainy season." The farmers rejoice, the miners and mill-owners are happy, and all California is in much better spirits than before, and all because the rain has come. As a consequence, all the different interests, manufacturing, commercial and banking, have more confidence in the future, and that inspires more confidence in the present.

THE RAINY WEEK

here was a snowy week on the mountains. Several feet of snow have fallen on the Sierras, and the overland trains have not made time. One or two days there were no trains through, mails and express matter were off time and parties expecting letters written in the east from the 6th to the 15th of January to be answered on time must add about a week to the time when due.

THE CHINAMAN.

Fully one-half of the house servants are Chinamen, and it is almost impossible to secure any others of the Irish, German, Swedish and other women, for the same class of service rendered in Boston at prices ranging from two to five dollars per week. Some receive from twenty-five to forty dollars per month, and are very scarce at that.

"John Chinaman," as they are usually called, are a peaceful race as a whole, and considering the local prejudice against them, it is rather commendable. Their habits are many of them disgusting, and from this fact no doubt arises much of the contempt and hatred so often expressed against them.

WAR ON PIG TAILS.

This feeling is often expressed officially. I append a clipping from a Nevada paper, showing a sample of legislation on this point. It is too well-known how John prizes his "queue" to need any reference to it here, but you will see the point of the law on that subject.

An anti-Chinese bill is before the Nevada legislature, as follows:

"Every person who shall feloniously steal, take, carry or drive away the personal property or goods of another, under the value of $50, shall be deemed guilty of petty larceny, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the county jail not more than six months, or by fine not exceeding $500; and in addition to the above punishment the court may, in its discretion, cause the hair of the person or persons so convicted to be clipped within an inch of the scalp, and may direct the sheriff or constable in attendance on the court to carry the order into effect."

The tidal wave of economy in public offices has reached here, and custom house officials are wondering who are to be dropped.

A CALIFORNIA JURY.

One of the peculiar features of California law I would not recommend. When a jury is wanted, notice is sent to the chief of police of the number required; the chief immediately details an officer, supplies him with blank notices, and the officer starts off and selects the required number at his discretion. One of the many singular cases that are likely to arise under this mode of procedure occurred yesterday. Your correspondent arrived here January 3d, and on the 20th he was drawn on a jury, to report on the 22d; if he is eligible. It certainly suggests a very loose manner of administering justice. I will report further. Of course now that I have become a Californian, I must not ridicule her laws, but it does appear to a casual observer as though in important cases an officer might be tampered with.

REV. I. S. KALLOCH,

formerly of the Tremont Temple in Boston. This gentleman has made two or three moves as suggested by the late Horace Greeley, "to go West, young man." He has finally located here, and is now pastor of a flourishing society which is building him a "Temple." He has outgrown a church already, and now needs a temple. In addition to his duties as pastor he is editor of one of the leading Baptist journals on this coast.

TOO MUCH SILVER.

For the first time since the war a greenback has become an valuable as silver coin, and I know of some transactions last week where one half of one per cent. premium was paid for greenbacks over silver. The market here is completely drugged with silver; most, if not all contracts here are gold. A sharp trick has crept into business circles of paying from 10 to 20 per cent. of a bill in silver. Small bills do not make this a serious matter, but in large remittances where they are required to be made in gold it is very annoying to be tendered silver. Merchants and others can afford to take a portion in silver, as it buys any small things as well as gold; it is only with people who are merely receiving agents and have to remit gold that the silver becomes a hardship and has to be refused absolutely. POWELL.

A CURIOUS CAPTURE.

WAYNESBORO', Va., Feb. 1.

Some three or four months since a man calling himself Reich came to this section of the country and, after looking around for some little time, purchased from the Rev. Jacob Hildebrand, a Mennonite minister and and wealthy farmer, living some seven miles north of this place, a tract of land located at the foot of what is known as "Turks Mountain," a ragged peak of the "Blue Ridge," one of the most uninviting, solitary, desolate situations any intelligent being could select. Reich took formal possession and erected as a residence an ordinary board shanty, where he has lived all alone for the last month or two, never coming to town and holding little or no communication with persons in the neighborhood. Day before yesterday a stranger arrived on the evening train from the East, hired a team and driver to take him to Mr. Hildebrand's where he said he was looking for a small tract of land to purchase. Mr. H. said he could accommodate him, but it was too late then to go and look at the land, as it was a couple of miles away. The stranger returned to this place, stayed all night and set off early yesterday morning to see Mr. H.'s land. Mr. H. had told him of Reich, and under the minister's guidance the stranger, after a toilsome and rough ride of two or three miles, came in sight of the shanty, where he left the vehicle and on foot approached the door. Here, without ceremony or apology, he presented a pistol and told Reich that he had been hunting for him for the past four months, and that he was now his prisoner. Reich showed no signs of resistance, but got into the carriage and was driven to this place, where they took the cars for New York.

The stranger proved to be a detective calling himself Newcomb, and says he has been looking for Reich for some time and had almost given up finding him, but fortunately he saw a letter mailed to him in New York city directed to the care of the Rev. Jacob Hilderbrand, and on that clue he came on here and on yesterday morning called at the postoffice in this place and got Mr. Hilderbrand's mail matter, together with the identical letter for Reich that gave him the clue. From some observations made by Detective Newcomb it appears that Reich is one of a gang of counterfeiters that was broken up some time ago in the west.—[Phil. Times.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A WONDER-WORKING REMEDY.

No remedial agent has ever been offered to the sick and debilitated at all comparable to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, in cases of remittent and intermittent fevers, constipation, nervous ailments, rheumatism and disorders involving constitutional weakness or physical decay. It literally "works wonders." The botanic ingredients which its spirituous basis holds in solution, act like a charm upon the stomach, and through the stomach upon the brain, liver, bowels and nervous system. There is nothing in its composition that is not salubrious. It contains some of the most potent tonics of the vegetable kingdom and the juices of the best aperient and anti-bilious roots and herbs, combined with a perfectly pure stimulating element. The Bitters are peculiarly adapted to those engaged in exhausting or unhealthy occupations, as by its use strength is sustained and the ability of the system to resist atmospheric and other influences prejudicial to health largely increased.

MANY THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

have been spent in distributing, free of charge, sample bottles of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP to all parts of this country, to those suffering from coughs, asthma, hemorrhages, consumption, and other throat and lung diseases, that the afflicted might satisfy themselves, that this remedy would save them from those fatal diseases. No person has ever used this medicine without getting immediate relief, yet there are a great many poor, suffering, skeptical persons going about our streets with a suspicious cough, and the voice of consumption coming from their lungs, that will not try it. If you die, it is your own fault, as you can go to your druggist, James H. Taylor, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it; three doses will relieve any case. Regular size only 75 cents.

☞ Probably no two hotels in the country have been so much looked up to and talked of as models to be imitated and emulated as the Tremont and Revere Houses of Boston, and in the lusty winter of their age they still defy the competition of many of their more pretentious rivals. Messrs. Chapin, Guerny & Co., now manage both houses, than whom none know better how to minister to the wants of sojourners at a hotel. Both houses are well patronized, and continue to be famous as resorts for the most distinguished artists, diplomats, and scions of nobility.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEA WEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS.—These deservedly celebrated and popular medicines have effected a revolution in the healing art, and proved the fallacy of several maxims which have for many years obstructed the progress of medical science. The false supposition that "consumption is incurable" deterred physicians from attempting to find remedies for that disease, and patients afflicted with it reconciled themselves to death without making an effort to escape from a doom which they supposed to be unavoidable. It is now proved, however, that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED, and that it HAS BEEN cured in a very great number of cases (some of them apparently desperate ones) by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup alone; and in other cases by the same medicine in connection with Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills, one or both, according to the requirements of the case.

Dr. Schenck himself, who enjoyed uninterrupted good health for more than forty years, was supposed, at one time to be at the very gate of death, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless, and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and, since his recovery, many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparations with the same remarkable success.

Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch streets, Philadelphia every Monday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists.

ARRIVAL!

Dr. Melancthon Guilford,

(LATE OF NEW YORK,)

PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,

HAS ARRIVED AT THE

PELHAM-STREET HOUSE, Newport,

AND WILL RECEIVE CALLERS,

FROM 9 A. M., TO 8 P. M.,

EACH DAY FOR ABOUT FIVE WEEKS.

Dr. Guilford for the past ten years has made a specialty of the cure of NERVOUS DISORDERS, having great success, curing by magnetism, and without giving medicine.

The doctor claims to have great natural magnetic power over diseases of the nerves, and for the treatment of such diseases does not use drugs.

The other complaints humanely and successfully treated by the doctor embrace nearly the whole catalogue of CHRONIC DISEASES, such as CATARRH, CONSUMPTION, and all diseases of the THROAT, BRONCHIAL TUBES, LUNGS, EARS, and EYES. He cures the worst forms of LIVER COMPLAINT, DYSPEPSIA, and all troubles of the DIGESTIVE ORGANS and KIDNEYS. He cures all diseases of the BLOOD and SKIN, such as CANCERS, TUMORS, SCROFULA, ERYSIPELAS, SORE EYES, SALT RHEUM, TETTER, PIMPLES, OLD SORES, ULCERS, &c., &c.

PARTICULAR ATTENTION given to that class of complaints requiring the services of the best surgical skill and experience, such as Ruptures, Fistulas, Piles, Gravel, Strictures, and all diseases of the Genital Organs, Bladder or Rectum, in either sex. Nervous Debility, and Seminal Weakness Specially Cured.

Dr. Guilford, has, for a number of years past, given much study to diseases of the Heart and Nerves, and to the cure of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, etc. He has had an extensive experience in the successful treatment of Complaints Incident to Females.

Appliances Furnished.

Dr. Guilford has made to his especial order the "Radical Cure Truss," for the cure of Ruptures, Abdominal and Uterine Supporters, for the cure of Displacement and "Prolapsus Uteri." Elastic Bandages, for Varicose Veins, and Chest Expanding Shoulder Braces, &c. Also supplies Ear Trumpets of all kinds for incurable deaf patients, Club Foot Shoes, appliances for Weak Ankle Joints, Knees and Bow Legs; also apparatus for the cure of Curvature of the Spine, &c., &c. And all of the above articles are made to order for the doctor's patients, and will be furnished at the very lowest prices.

TESTIMONIALS.

Dr. Guilford does not publish the names of his patients. He has during the past ten years of his special practice cured a great many people, old and young, male and female, rich and poor, and has certificates of such cures; but patients come to him in confidence, many with very sensitive and delicate feelings regarding their physical condition, and the doctor WILL NOT BETRAY HIS TRUST. All may consult with him upon the most delicate subjects pertaining to their health, with every assurance of the interview being secret.

Particular Notice.

Consultation entirely free. To those who place themselves under treatment, examination is free; otherwise a small fee is charged.

After making a thorough examination, ascertaining the nature of the case, if curable, etc., the doctor will determine the length of time necessary to effect a radical cure, and fix the value of his services accordingly, WHICH IN ALL CASES SHALL BE WITHIN THE MEANS OF THE PATIENT.

Afternoons particularly devoted to women and children. feb6

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1877.

A Clock Wonder.

During the summer of '17— there might have been observed loitering about the Tuileries a spare, shabbily-dressed man, past the prime of life, restless and disconcerted in his movements, but wearing, in spite of his humble garb, an air of faded respectability and character. He was a decayed Spanish nobleman, Don Mansen Chavarri by name, and one thing noticeable about him was his persistency in endeavoring to obtain an audience of the emperor. Foiled in every attempt, either through accident or the suspicions of the attendants, he invariably received his rebuffs in silence and withdrew—merely to renew his importunities. Repulsed today, tomorrow found him at his post. He haunted the palace like a spectre. Even the gamins soon grew familiar with the story of his hopeless quest, and he began in time to be treated with that pitiful consideration which is usually accorded to those of unsound mind.

At length, however, there came a day, when, in the Rue de Rivoli, as the emperor was returning from a review, a pistol shot rang out from the corner of the court, and the bullet buried itself in a panel of the imperial carriage. The police at once charged the crowd and among the number arrested was our friend, the Spaniard.

At the trial, there being no evidence against him, he was acquitted, but warned to instantly leave Paris. Acting upon the warning he disappeared, and for the time all traces of him were lost.

It was some two years after this occurrence that there began to circulate among the quid nunes of the capital, reports of a marvellous clock to be seen in that city; which illustrated by means of automatic figures, an episode in the life of the emperor, and was designed for presentation to that personage.

It was said to be the work of a famous artisan, who had lately arrived incognito from foreign parts, accompanied by a young lady, his daughter, who in a supposed fit of eccentricity, had taken lodgings in an humble and obscure quarter of the Faubourg St. Antoine. The reports of the wonderful, almost supernatural performances of this piece of mechanism, and the mystery surrounding its owner and inventor, gave rise for a short time and in certain circles to no small amount of gossip.

This gradually died away, and the artisan and his clock were alike forgotten, when an event occurred which restored them to more than their former prominence, and entitled them to a place in history.

Fouché, one morning in his office, received a letter from his secret agent in Spain, which contained information of a most startling and important character. Its perusal threw him into a state of very unusual excitement, and the result was an immediate descent of the police upon the mysterious shop in the Faubourg St. Antoine, with orders to arrest the artisan and his daughter, secure the premises, and carefully guard all the stocks, implements, tools, and other contents from being touched or displaced till further opportunity offered for a thorough investigation.

The party detailed for the duty having departed, Fouché resented himself and waited, with ill-concealed anxiety, the arrival of the prisoners.

After a considerable lapse of time the officer charged with the arrest appeared empty handed. His report was soon made.

The lady in the case, the daughter, had that morning at an early hour, left her house in the Faubourg, accompanied by a young lad who bore a heavy black portmanteau. The two had been traced to the gates of Montmartre, beyond which point no clue to their movements could be obtained.

The old workman himself had left the shop an hour before the visit of the police, locking doors and barring windows behind him. He bore in his arms what was apparently, according to the apple woman opposite, a great, square box, covered with oil skin. It seemed heavy. He sat down a while on his doorstep, when a calash came by, into which he put himself and box, with the assistance of the driver, and was driven on at a rapid pace. The calash was brown. The driver was in green livery. A gendarme was following him, and another was guarding the shop in the Faubourg, where, however, nothing remained but a piece of furniture and a great many scraps of brass and iron.

Fouché reflected a moment, when his face suddenly whitened. Without a word he dashed down the stairway to the street and sprang into a passing fiacre.

"To the Tuileries!" he shouted. "Double wages for double speed!"

Arrived at the palace, he hastily alighted and demanded to be at once shown into the presence of the emperor. Napoleon was in the boudoir in which he frequently received private visitors, and thither the ushers instantly conducted Fouché, who encountering some delay in the ante-room, impatiently pushed open the folding doors and entered unannounced. The emperor greeted the intrusion at first with a frown of displeasure, but instantly recognizing his visitor, resumed his accustomed expression and nodded affably.

Fouché took in the situation at a single glance.

Besides Napoleon, there were five persons in the room. Four of these were officials of the palace—chamberlains and armed valets—who frequently attended when he gave audience, to prevent attempts at private assassination. The fifth was a man habited in a common workman's blouse, standing apart from the others in a respectful attitude, and holding in his hand a workman's red fez cap. It needed but a glance to assure Fouché that this person was none other than the old familiar goblin of the Tuileries—Don Mansen Chavarri. But how metamorphosed! His hair, formerly gray, was dyed to a glossy blackness; his face was despoiled of its moustache and pointed beard, and his once smooth hands were roughened as though by exposure and toil.

At his side stood a large lacquer table, supporting an object, which Fouché's attentive eye at once perceived to be an exact model of the church of the Notre Dame, wrought in metal, in the highest style of the art, and serving evidently as the case for a clock, since just above the folding doors, which were perfect imitations of those which barred the principal entrance to Notre Dame, were two dials, on one of which the hours and minutes were measured, while on the other a long sweeping hand described the seconds. Fouché, by a natural impulse, noticed the time indicated by the dials. It lacked a few minutes of noon.

Immediately thereafter he started with a nervous alarm as the clock gave a warning note as though about to strike—then suddenly there was a clank of complicated machinery, and the great doors folded slowly inward, exposing the whole of the gorgeous interior to view.

The mimic church was decorated as though for some great fete. Banners and hangings of the richest material and most costly workmanship fluttered from the ceilings and flaunted from the niches in the walls. The aisles were carpeted with tapestry and velvet and pillars were clustered with gold and blazing gems. On the opposite sides of the great nave two thrones were erected, the one being approached by a flight of velvet-covered steps, and canopied with the cloth of gold and scarlet velvet, sprinkled with golden bees.

And now the great bell in the tower struck one with a heavy, reverberating clang, there arose a swell of triumphal music, and a mimic procession, clad in gorgeous robes, moved into view from one of the hidden aisles. At the head of this cortege walked an old man, wearing a triple crown, who, as the bell tolled for the second time, ascended the steps of the smaller throne.

It was the ceremony of the coronation performed by automatons.

Napoleon looked on with unusual interest. "Confess, Fouché," said he, "that this is as admirable in its way as the police system of Paris. There is one mistake, however," he continued. "The great doors of Notre Dame were not open on that occasion. The throne was built against them, the only entrance was through the transept halls."

"True, sir," said the fictitious artisan, casting a side glance at Fouché, whose name he had just heard pronounced. "True, but your able majesty will see that it is a mistake unavoidable here. Like the rest of the world, we have been obliged to sacrifice truth in order to secure effect."

The emperor smiled and remained silent.

Meanwhile, Fouché was revolving a dilemma in his mind with the rapidity of one accustomed to act in dangerous crises. There are situations in which a slight vantage in the hands of a dangerous man may set at naught the strength of thousands, and in which the most extraordinary means must be employed to secure what are apparently trifling results. Fouche adopted the course which seemed at first most speedily practicable, since the consideration of first importance was in this instance time.

"Your majesty," said he, advancing and speaking rapidly, "may I request your cabinet to a matter which will not admit of a moment's delay."

The emperor turned in surprise and frowned, Chavarri looked up sullenly and silently, and made a suspicious movement toward his clock. With the rapidity of thought Fouche changed his plans.

"Your majesty," said he loudly and more rapidly than before, "the Lady Isidore Chavarri has just been arrested near the cemetery of Montmartre, charged with a capital crime. She has already been tried by a special tribunal and condemned to death. I come to implore your majesty to grant pardon."

As he spoke he fixed a painful, searching gaze upon the Spaniard. This time the blow had struck. The old man's face was taking on a sickly hue and his limbs trembled.

"This is a most unusual proceeding," said the emperor in amazement. "Who is this lady and what is the nature of her crime?"

Fouche, bent double with suspense, still keeping his eye riveted upon the tawny, changing face, spoke almost imploringly:

"You have trusted me before, sire, I beseech you trust me now. Ask me no questions, but write the pardon—quickly."

There was an instant of silence, broken only by the ticking and low, fair music of the clock. The second hand was measuring on the sixtieth minute with rapid, steady sweeps. Almost unconsciously Fouche drew a pistol from his pocket, cocked it unobserved, and with a face as that of a corpse was raising himself to fire—with a cry to the emperor on his lips—when Chavarri, whose mind seemed torn by contending emotions, bent suddenly over his mechanism, touched a spring concealed in the rear of the tower, and instantly the whole complicated machinery of the clock stopped with a sudden metallic clang. The music ceased, the automatons paused; standing like statues, each in his place, the mimic emperor stretching out his hand for the crown of the Cesars, and the great bell in the tower poised midway in its swing for the twelfth and final stroke.

"Parbleu!" muttered Fouche, pocketing the pistol and wiping the perspiration from his brow. "Allow me, Monsieur," he said, advancing to the table, "let me inspect this wonderful specimen of art."

"It is so delicate, Monsieur," said Chavarri hurriedly, still keeping his finger on the secret spring and waving Fouche off with his unengaged hand.

"Here is the pardon," said the emperor, annexing his signature to a paper as he spoke.

"I hold you, Fouche, responsible for results. Well, what next?"

"Broken, sire!" said the Spaniard, "and with it the plans of a lifetime." "And," he added casting down his eyes, and speaking in a low, querulous, broken voice, "since when one's hopes are broken, one cares but little where he goes. I wish a passport to leave France."

Fouche took up the cue immediately. "I have to request, sire," said he, "that you also make out a full and free pardon for the accomplice of the Lady Isadore Chavarri—her father, Don Mansen Chevarri—."

The emperor smiled bitterly. His active mind had already compassed the situation, and without a word either of expostulation or inquiry he seized a pen and wrote. Then having finished and signed the double pardon he advanced with it in his hand.

"Our friend here," said he, "doubtless knows where these parties are to be found, and to him I confide these papers."

The old man, still jealously keeping his hand on the spring of the mechanism, read aloud.

"A full permission to Don Mansen and Donna Isador Chavarri to leave France immediately, without hindrance or question."

"Add" said he, "and alive."

"You would make a good diplomat," said Napoleon, as he made the required addition.

Chavarri hesitated for a moment, removed his hand lingeringly from the spring and bowing his head, glided towards the door. Just at the threshold he turned in sudden dismay.

"Where shall I find my daughter?" asked Chavarri.

"When she is found we will send Monsieur word," answered Fouche.

An expression of the most intense malignity flashed across the old man's face, and with an oath he sprang back toward the table in the room. But a pistol confronted him.

"The pardons are forfeited!" cried Fouche.

"No," said the emperor, "let him pass."

Chavarri, with a look of wonder, wheeled slowly about and disappeared.

After his departure Napoleon stood for a short time in the center of the apartment, lost in a profound reverie.

Then as his gaze fell upon the clock and the automaton standing beneath the suspended crown within, he bent forward and regarded it attentively.

"So," he said, "this was to have been my successor."

It is scarcely necessary to add that the clock proved, on examination, to be an infernal machine of the most ingenious and deadly description. Concealed beneath the metallic slab which formed the pavement of the mimic chapel, and which was constructed to fold back at the proper moment, we found a triple row of small, wrought-iron barrels, loaded heavily with slugs and balls, arranged to cover an arc of forty-five degrees, at a distance of twenty yards from the machine; no one within that range could possibly have withstood their discharge, exploded simultaneously, exactly when the hands on the dial indicated the hour of noon; but a spring on the outside of the case gave the manipulator power to alter the "set" of the works, and discharge them sooner if necessary.

A few months after the occurrence of the incident narrated above, Fouche received a letter from Chavarri, then in England, written in the vein in which men who have played a desperate game and lost, occasionally write to those who have outwitted them. The writer stated that the clock was entirely the work of his own hands, and that he and his daughter alone were concerned in the plot which had been frustrated by Fouche's promptness.

As for himself, he had little expectation of escaping, having freely resolved to involve himself if necessary in the destruction which should overwhelm the emperor. His daughter, however, the only person on earth for whom he retained any affection, he could not afford thus to sacrifice. He had made provisions elsewhere for her future support, and according to the original plan, she was to have left Paris some thirty days before the consummation of the plot, thus having abundant time to pass the frontiers and reach a place of safety. This had been foiled by an unforeseen event. On the evening before the final fiasco at the Tuileries they had received information to the effect that Napoleon was on the point of departure for the frontier, and everything being in readiness, and the period of his return being uncertain, it was determined to make the attempt at once. On the following morning, accordingly, the daughter had departed at as early an hour as possible, trusting for her escape to good fortune, and he himself, fortified with letters from prominent officials, had proceeded to the palace at eleven, having given his daughter all the time it was possible to spare.

Fouche himself knew the rest.

No personal danger, no promised honor, nothing, in short, but the cunningly devised falsehood regarding his daughter, could have induced him—Chavarri—to stop the hands of the fatal clock.

He also confessed that it was he who, two years ago, had fired the shot in the Rue de Rivoli, and stated that it had long been the sole aim and purpose of his life to assassinate Napoleon. He added, however, that they need have no fear of his repeating the attempt, as the magnanimity of the emperor on the last occasion had completely disarmed him.

Chavarri subsequently died in extreme poverty in London. Of the after fate of his daughter nothing is known. His clock, despoiled of the murderous portion of its machinery, was preserved for several years in the Tuileries, and was finally destroyed by an accidental fire and the falling of a wall.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and Relief and Health to Your Infants.

We have put up and sold this article for years, and CAN SAY IN CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it, what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED, IN A SINGLE INSTANCE, TO EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operations, and speak in terms of highest commendation of its magical effects and medical virtues. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after years of experience, AND PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILLMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the syrup is administered.

This valuable preparation has been used with NEVER FAILING SUCCESS in

Thousands of Cases,

It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. It will almost instantly relieve Griping in the Bowels, and Wind Colic.

We believe it the BEST AND SUREST REMEDY IN THE WORLD, in all cases of DYSENTERY AND DIARRHŒA IN CHILDREN, whether it arises from teething, or from any other cause. We would say to every mother who has a child suffering from any of the foregoing complaints—DO NOT LET YOUR PREJUDICES, NOR THE PREJUDICES OF OTHERS, stand between your suffering child and the relief that will be SURE—yes, ABSOLUTELY SURE—to follow the use of this medicine, if timely used. Full directions for using will accompany each bottle.

FOR SALE.—Lots suitable for summer residences at Coddington Point. This is one of the most desirable locations in the vicinity of Newport, and affords views of the city, harbor and bay unsurpassed. The Old Colony Railroad has a station here, so that residents from Boston, Fall River, Taunton and other cities in New England can be landed at their own doors. Very eligible lots can be had at ten cents a foot. A house located a short distance from the station, and having an unobstructed water view will be sold very low. This whole property will, in a few years be worth many times its present value. No other such opportunity for investors of capital is presented in this city. For particulars apply at the DAILY NEWS office.

EDMUND BURKE, late Commissioner of Patents."

Boston, October 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: you procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you. Yours truly,

TO THE LOVERS of STEREOSCOPIC VIEWS.
THE ATTENTION of the public is invited to the following views from negative by J. A. WILLIAMS, which is believed to be the best and largest collection of the gems of Newport scenery ever offered.
The negatives are all carefully taken with the best materials and instruments and aim to present not merely patches of landscapes from points chosen at random as is the case with many others, but, views which shall combine within themselves all the best elements of a picture in the artistic sense.
We would call particular attention to our new cabinet size views taken the present season, 1876, which exhibit with all the fidelity of the stereoscope.
Parties who may wish to make presents to their friends abroad, or to carry home memento of Newport, cannot make a more acceptable choice than by selecting from the many beautiful views of Newport and surroundings.
Interiors and exteriors of houses taken to order. Also parties, horses, &c.
